

"This help changed my life."

Thanks to the support of Jugend Eine Welt, Chantamma was able to attend school and study at the university.

Chantamma has become a young and confident woman with a degree in information technology. Something she would never have dared dream of as a young girl: Chantamma's parents were simple farmhands in the Indian state of Andhra Pradesh. Their ill health meant they could only work sporadically, and Chantamma was only seven years old when she had to start contributing to the family income as a day labourer in the fields.

When she was ten a Don Bosco social worker visited the family and offered their youngest daughter free reading and writing lessons. After some hesitation, her parents allowed her to attend them. Chantamma was soon able to switch to a state school where she became one of the top pupils. This won her a scholarship to university.

Today Chantamma says: "This help changed my life. I would like to repay it one day and help other children so they can do what I did."

Jugend Eine Welt

The organisation Jugend Eine Welt - Don Bosco Entwicklungszusammenarbeit has been helping children and young people to find a way out of poverty by means of education since 1997.

Schools and vocational training

Worldwide, millions of children cannot go to school. Jugend Eine Welt helps young people graduate from school or complete an apprenticeship so that they can stand on their own two feet.

Street children and social projects

Extreme poverty forces children to drop out of school and work in conditions that exploit them. Many of them end up on the street. At the social centres supported by Jugend Eine Welt they are looked after with love and affection and given the chance to go back to school.

Disaster relief and humanitarian aid

Disasters and other emergencies hit needy families particularly hard. Jugend Eine Welt provides rapid and unbureaucratic help in the event of a disaster. Long-term rebuilding is particularly important to us.

Global network for global aims

The young persons' patron saint and pioneer of social work John Bosco (Don Bosco, 1815 – 1888) realised that help for disadvantaged young people can only be effective if it comes through education.

Jugend Eine Welt works with the Salesians of Don Bosco and the Don Bosco Sisters to ensure that EVERY child has access to education. Our Don Bosco partners are active in over 130 countries around the world. They live with the young people who are entrusted to their care and are thoroughly familiar with the local situation. This guarantees that donations are used efficiently. The Don Bosco schools and social centres rightly have an excellent reputation, since they focus firmly on young people and offer them a way out of poverty.

At the heart of the work done by Jugend Eine Welt is asserting the right to quality education for all. With your help we work tirelessly to achieve this.
